Degree Offered: B.A.

Asian studies is an interdisciplinary major that explores the complex interaction between political, social, religious, and other important spheres of human life in Asia. Emphasis is placed not only on the diversity and achievements of Asian civilizations but also on the ways an understanding of Asia may shed new light on Western cultural traditions. The major is built around courses in the humanities and social science divisions and a team-taught interdisciplinary core course, Introduction to Asian Civilizations. Some “Residential College Courses” may qualify for Asian studies credit.

Requirements: The undergraduate Asian studies major will consist of 30 hours or more of course work. All majors must take the core course, HUMA 211, and 9 additional courses drawn from at least three of the departments offering courses in Asian studies. (See specific guidelines below.)

Degree Requirements for B.A. in Asian Studies

For general university requirements, see Graduation Requirements (pages 16–18). Students majoring in Asian studies must complete 30 semester hours or more of major course work, including:

- HUMA 211 Introduction to Asian Civilizations
- 9 additional courses drawn from at least three of the departments offering courses in Asian studies (see below)
- 6 courses at the 300 level or above
- 2 years of Asian language (this may include Asian languages other than those offered by Rice), though students may count no more than four semesters of Asian languages toward the major.

Any changes in the requirements for the major must be approved by the director of Asian studies.
One or more independent reading courses (ASIA 401 for the fall and ASIA 402 for the spring) taught by Asian studies faculty in these departments may be counted toward the major. Students may also use certain residential college courses to fulfill their major requirements, subject to the approval of the director of Asian studies.

The following courses, not all of which are taught every year, may be used to satisfy the major requirements. Note that a number of these courses are cross-listed.
