In the 1999–2000 academic year, Rice University began offering a new set of courses in the area of Neuroscience to supplement a set of courses already offered by various departments in closely allied areas. These courses, which carry the designation NEUR, are offered in part by faculty associated with the Division of Neurosciences at Baylor College of Medicine and in part by faculty at Rice in several different departments (including Biochemistry and Cell Biology; Computer Science, Electrical and Computer Engineering, Linguistics, and Psychology.) They are intended primarily for Rice graduate students but, with permission may be available to advanced undergraduates. Some of these classes are taught at the nearby Baylor campus, and some are taught according to Baylor's academic calendar, which is different from Rice's. For further information on what courses are available and for instructions on how to apply to enter these classes, consult Rice's neuroscience website at <http://www.ruf.rice.edu/~neurosci/>.
