DEGREES OFFERED: BA, MA, PHD

Courses in this department hone language skills in French while placing a diverse, generalized knowledge of French literature within a broad spectrum of cultural, historical, philosophical, and theoretical concerns. Students also are urged to take courses in fields closely related to French studies, including European and English history, literature, and philosophy. The department encourages students to spend time studying in a francophone country, and to that end the French studies department and Office of Academic Advising will help students select an appropriate program.

DEGREE REQUIREMENTS FOR BA IN FRENCH STUDIES

For general university requirements, see Graduation Requirements (Undergraduate Students section, pages 2–5). Students majoring in French studies must complete at least 30 semester hours in upper-level courses (at the 300 or 400 level). A double major or an area major must complete 24 hours in upper-level courses.

Required Courses

FREN 311 Major Literary Works and Artifacts of Pre-Revolutionary France

FREN 312 Major Literary Works and Artifacts of Post-Revolutionary France: The Romantic Legacy

FREN 336 Writing Workshop

Electives

Seven additional courses (for single majors)—at least three courses at the 400 level

Five additional courses (for double majors)—at least two courses at the 400 level

As many as two French courses taught in English may count toward a major in French studies. Students who have taken 300- and 400-level French courses (except those taught in English) cannot enroll simultaneously or afterward in 200-level French courses for credit. More than half of the courses for the major must be taken at Rice University. The department normally requires that the basic courses for the major (FREN 311, 312, and 336) be taken at Rice. It is strongly suggested that these courses be taken as early as possible.

Students with diplomas from French-speaking institutions must consult with the department before enrolling in courses, and all majors and prospective majors must have their programs of study approved by an undergraduate advisor. Students wishing to complete the honors program in French studies also should consult one of the advisors.

Campus Activities—To acquaint students with French language and culture, the department sponsors a weekly French table that meets at lunch in a college. The Club Chouette also organizes outings to French movies, sponsors guest lectures, and, in cooperation with the department, helps to produce a play during the spring semester. Students who maintain at least a B average in two or more advanced French courses and have a GPA of at least 3.0, are invited to join the Theta chapter of the honorary Pi Delta Phi.

Travel Abroad—The department encourages majors to spend time living and studying in a francophone country. The Alliance Française of Houston offers a summer scholarship of $3,000 each year to a qualified sophomore or junior for six weeks of study in France. The Clyde Ferguson Bull Traveling Fellowship is awarded each year to an undergraduate to spend the junior year studying in France with a program approved by the department. Candidates must have taken at least one 300-level course in the department and have a GPA of at least 3.0. Information about study abroad is available from the department faculty and in the Office of Academic Advising.

DEGREE REQUIREMENTS FOR MA AND PHD IN FRENCH STUDIES

Admission to graduate study in French, granted each year to a limited number of qualified students, requires a distinguished undergraduate record in the study of French literature or a related field and a capacity for independent work. All candidates should have a near-native command of the French language. For general university requirements, see Graduate Degrees (Graduate Student section, pages 3–4).

MA Program—In most cases, students take two years to complete work for the MA degree in French studies. While graduate students normally take 500-level courses, as many as two courses at the 400 level may count toward fulfillment of the following course requirements. MA candidates must:

- Complete with satisfactory standing 27 semester hours (in addition to BA course work) of upper-level courses, plus six hours of independent study in the preparation of three advanced research papers to be defended before their MA committee. The selection of the paper topics must receive preliminary approval from the examination committee.
- Perform satisfactorily on a reading examination in 1 department-approved language other than French or English.
- Perform satisfactorily on preliminary written and oral examinations conducted in French on works specified on the department reading list.

PhD Program—Candidates normally take 500-level courses, but students entering with a BA may count toward their PhD degree as many as three courses at the 400 level; those entering with an MA may count two such courses. Graduate student enrollment in a course listed only at the 400 level, however, is subject to the instructor's approval. Candidates for the PhD degree must meet the following criteria, ensuring that they complete the language requirement and their preliminary exams one year before they submit a dissertation:

- In a program approved by the department, complete with high standing at least 57 semester hours of course work, plus 36 thesis hours (for those already holding an MA degree, the requirement is 39 hours of course work, plus 36 thesis hours). Six of these units may be fulfilled with a 600-level independent study course.
- Satisfactorily complete one course at the 300 level or above in a language other than French or English. With the permission of the graduate committee, this requirement also may be met through satisfactory performance on a written language examination or by such other means as the graduate committee may direct.

- Perform satisfactorily on preliminary written and oral examinations based on readings comprising both required and individually selected texts, including readings in French literature from all major periods and readings in philosophy and theory; history, cultural studies, and film; and postcolonial and gender studies. The oral exam can be taken only after successful completion of the written exam.
- Complete a dissertation, approved by the department, that represents an original contribution to the field of French studies.
- Perform satisfactorily on a final oral examination on the dissertation.
